

THE HILLTOP

TWENTY SEVENTEEN

A photograph of a brick building with ivy and dormer windows, serving as a background for the text. The building has a grey shingled roof with three white-trimmed dormer windows. The walls are covered in dense ivy, with some leaves showing autumnal colors. A large tree with green leaves is on the left side of the frame.

Congratulations to the Class of 2017!

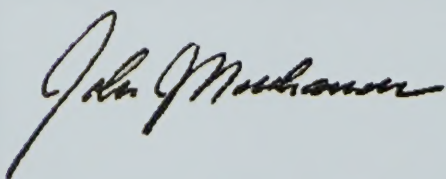

Welcome to a book of memory. My hope is that you return to this volume over the years and recall a time in your life that began with a little anxiety progressed through the seasons with the inevitable ups and downs of a life growing, and culminated with a wish to do it again.

When you arrived you likely had little idea what lie ahead, but you expected it to be new, and at times challenging. We all worry how we will fit into a new setting so this added to your concerns for there would be new faces everywhere, and a little homesickness at the beginning. Ahead were four winters in the northwest corner of Vermont.

This all went by so quickly, didn't it? You saw the world anew through lenses you hardly knew existed, tested yourself in physical and social arenas, developed knowledge in a discipline or two and grew in understanding of your place in this good world. And perhaps at the heart were the people who were with you on this journey. You'll find many of them pictured in these pages, for the most part in ways that don't embarrass! But of course you will have your own memories of your friends. The pictures and words here will only serve as keys to make you smile with fond recollection. And they will grow until you are a Golden Knight. This is why this little volume is so important, it's about the people that touched your mind and your hear, your friends, faculty and staff of this College.

Please visit this place beneath a mountain and next to a lake as often as you can. May your life be full and rich of all that is good.

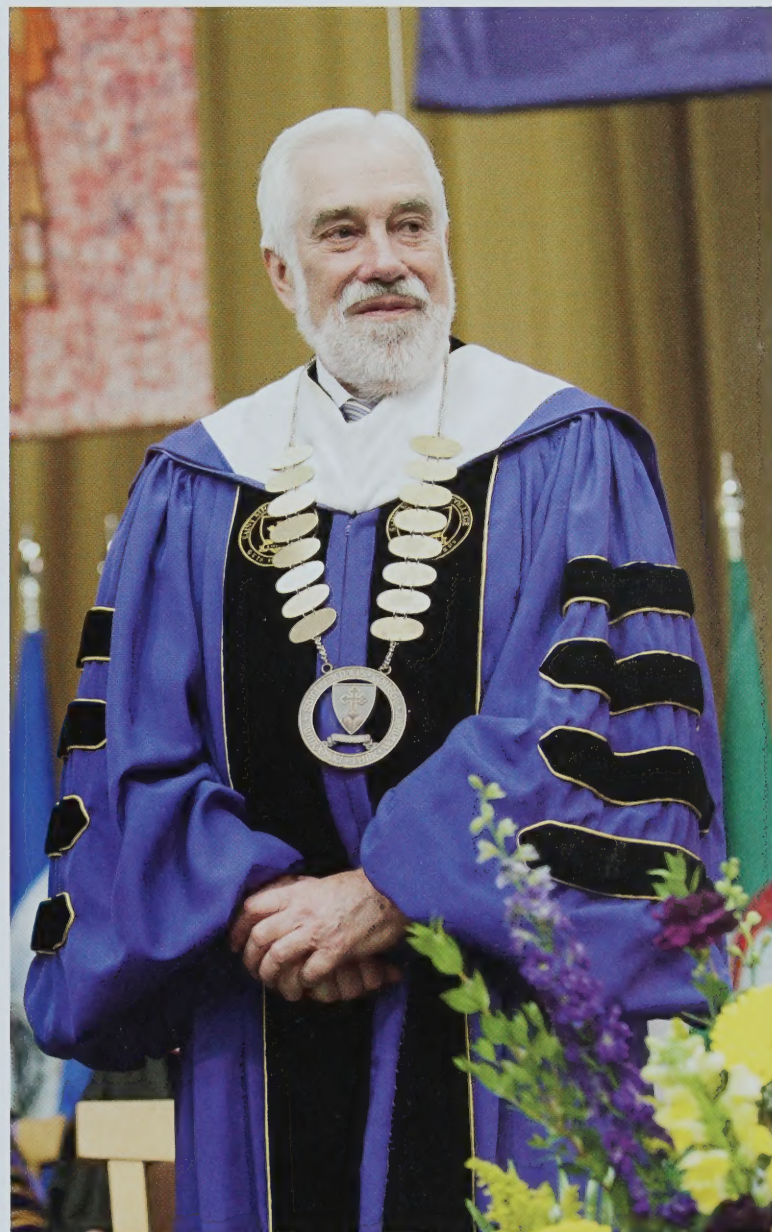

Yours sincerely,

John J. Neuhauser

Dr. Dave Landers

Yearbook Dedication

For forty years, David Landers has made a profound impact on the lives of countless students, staff and faculty. Dave is not only a well respected and adored psychology professor, he has spent countless hours working with the Orientation program and the Athletics department. Without a doubt, his presence on campus will be missed greatly as he retires. He preaches to his students the positivity of the future and how bright it is for all, from psychology majors to science majors to business majors. He has never doubted his students, but he guides them to be the young people he once was. As the Class of 2017 embarks on our own adventures, he will be on the lake, kayaking along, paddling to his own tune, and as selflessly as always, reflecting on how Saint Michael's College has shaped him instead of how he shaped us. It is with great pride and joy that the Class of 2017 dedicates the 2017 yearbook to Dr. David Landers.
